AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT FORD'S THEATER.—The celebrated Christy M natreis will held forth at Ford's again tonight. Of course there will be a crowded house, for people will laugh, no matter how high provisions are. But while these Minstrels crack many jokes, they also give an artistic musical entertainment. VARIETIES .- The new local drama of Fitzsimmons, "The Belle of Washington," is a big thing, and attracts full audiences. It is sensational in the extreme, but is exceedingly interesting, and the interest in it keeps up admira-

CANTERBURY .- There is fun of a rich order here also, and not among the least of the experts at fun making is Mr. J. H. Ogden, the old in hambassador," whose adaptation appears to be peculiarly Irish, and induces as much laughter as "Handy Andy" could possibly do. The rest of the compady is good.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE .- About 9% o'clock last night the large flour, grain, and feed store on 7th street, between K and L north, belonging to Mr. P. W. Dorsey, was discovered to be on fire in the rear of the store, and from the manner in which it originated it is presumed that the straw and hay was fired by an incendiary. The combustible nature of the stock caused the fire to spread so rapidly that little could be done until the arrival of the firemen. The steam engines were soon at work, and by pouring constant streams of water upon the burning building and the property around prevented the spread of the fire further than to a two story trame dwelling adjoining the storehouse on the north side, owned by Jos. Downing, Sr., and occupied by Jao. Hammond, huckster, which was partially de-

Efforts were made by citizens to save as much as possible for Mr. Dorsey, and a number of persons ventured under the roof where the fire had been burning for some time. Unfor-tunately the rafters had burned through, and the roof fell in, carrying with it a portion of the south wall. Most of those outside succeeded in making their escape, but an old well known citizen, Josian Egleson, was caught by the falling wall and crushed to death. The body was soon taken out and conveyed to his residence. It was at first supposed that two others were buried under the wall, but this was an error; they escaped. Subsequently a portion of the north wall fell and it was rumored that a boy and two men were buried under it, but there is no confirmation of this.

While the Anacostia hose reel was standing without a guard, near the Northern Market, some scoundrels took possession of it, and ran it down to the canal at the foot of Ninth street. and pitched it overboard. Officers Johnson and Greer, of the Third Ward, succeeded in arresting Gus. Dickson, Charles Adams and Gustavus Heisler, who are charged with the act, and are held for a hearing to-day by Justice Thompson. The loss of Mr. Dorsey is hard to estimate, as he was just replenishing his stock, and the storehouse was nearly filled. The lowest estimate is $14,000. The store and stock were par-tially insured. Mr. Downing's loss, by the partial destruction of the frame dwelling, is When the north wall fell there were at least flity people standing near it, and it is a mystery how so many escaped with life and limb ACCIDENT ON THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO

RAILROAD-Two Men Killed .- An accident resulting in the death of Mr. Jacob Groff, a baggage master, and a soldier of an Indiana regiment, occurred ye terday on the Washington Branch Railroad, between 5 and 6 o'clock, p. m. The Express train which left Baltimore at 4.40 and the Passeager train which left this city at 4.50 collided on: half mile this side of Annapolis Junction. The engines, baggage cars, express cars, and several of the passenger cars were broken and smashed to pieces. Mr. Jacob Groff, the baggage mast down train, was so severely injured that he died within an hour after the accident occurred. His legs and arms were broken, and his body was badly mashed. His remains were taken to Baltimore where his family resided. Mr. Groff was one of the oldest and most trusty em-ployees on the road and at the time of the accident was at the post of duty, putting down the brakes. The soldier who was killed was standing on the platform of the smoking car. No others were injured on the down train. On the train from Washington Edward Bullen, baggage master, was very severely injured, being mmed up among the baggage and car rains. He was taken to Annapolis Junction, where he received medical aid. The engineers and firemen jumped off the thereby escaped uninjured. None of the passengers were injured. The conductor on the train from Washington was Mr. Hegyer, while Mr. Taylor had charge of the train from Baltimore. Both are old and respected conductors, who have ever been careful of their trains. But their watches differed, and this was the result of the accident. It is impossible to blame either of them.

engines just before the collision occurred, and

Mr. William Prescott Smith, the Superintendent of the road, with his usual energy, at once set to work to have the passengers conveyed to their respective destinations, and despatched extra trains to effect this end. Mr. Smith has also instituted a thorough investigation of the matter, and he will certainly punish any dereliction of duty, if such there was.
